

CI 299 N Hooson

First name: Naren

Last name: Hooson

Q1:

Yes, our current classification framework does not allow proper management of game releases or enable the freedoms and monitoring we see in other areas of media classification.

Q2:

To monitor and manage all media releases in a way that allows educated choices for adults and age groups that are targeted in each classification area.

Q3:

No, the classification should be subject to what is age appropriate legal content and educated adult choices.

Q4:

No, all content should be classified.

Q5:

Yes.

Q6:

No.

Q7:

Yes

Q8:

Yes

Q9:

No

Q10:

No, it should be classified regardless.

Q11:

Q12:

Access to online content should be controlled within the household.

Q13:

This should be controlled within the household for all types of media. Public access to inappropriate material should not be made possible.

Q14:

This needs to be controlled from the place of purchase and within a household.

Q15:

This should be in line with movie classifications.

Q16:

The roles should be in classifying this information into levels of age appropriate access.

Q17:

Yes, this would allow a much better understanding of the content and create cooperation between industry and government that would allow for much better monitoring, management and freedom of choice.

Q18:

Sexual content, nudity, offensive language, horror, violence.

Q19:

No

Q20:

I believe they are understood but do not allow complete choice for adult gamers.

Q21:

An R 18 rating is needed in video games to allow greater freedom of choice for gamers at and above this age group.

Q22:

Classification criteria should be in line across all media types.

Q23:

Yes

Q24:

This depends on the source and purpose of the material. News and expose material has a different purpose to other content.

Q25:

No

Q26:

Yes, through state and territories communicating together and with the communities they represent.

Q27:

One that is consistent across all media.

Q28:

No, this should be done in cooperation with states, territories and the Commonwealth.

Q29:

Promotion of awareness of classifications and who and how they target the users. Cooperation and discussion with all the users of the media in the classification areas.

Other comments: