Q1:

A new framework for classification should be created. The most important of these is the introduction of an R18+ rating for video games. At the minute, inappropriately violent games are incorrectly classified into the Ma15 category, allowing children to purchase and play these games. Compounding this fact, consenting adults are disallowed from games they should have a right to play

Q2:

To prevent inappropriate content from being accessed by those who are too young to access such content.

Q3:

No, because no study has objectively, definitively proven that other, more interactive platforms like video games have a greater effect than less immersive media like films or television programming.
