Dear Sir Madam,

I am pleased that you have given us the opportunity to express concerns and observations re protection for religious schools to continue.

I support financially Christian Education in my area because I see the need for children to understand they do matter, and should contribute to society and not just live for themselves. This is one of the basic principles of Christianity to care and love others and themselves. The directions and guidance left for us to follow in the Bible is primarily so we have a correct understanding what God wants. The Lord wants all people to know Him, live well and peaceably with others.

I find it frightening how society has become selfish, few people will now volunteer to do things in society for the love of it. As people have moved away from what was taught in Christian Schools, many now have no concern about stealing from anyone, and now see older people as an easy target, or worse that they are entitled to take from those who do have means.

Throughout history we have records of the misery and demise of societies that have moved away from Christianity. Most significantly is the over sexualising and devaluing monogamous relationships. Families in Australia are getting broken up. Children are confused, stressed, expected to handle adult matters.

Please leave our Christian Schools to do the good job they do and allow them to select and employ the people who understand and value Christianity.

Yours Faithfully

Chris Genat
