Question 16:

Should remain at 55 and not increase to 60. People may be living longer but they are only old and sick longer. Most people out of choice would not retire until 60. However there may be circumstances which would be right for people to access their super at 55 e.g. wife wants to retire when her older husband retires so they can enjoy retirement together. There are many men married to women who are younger. The man retires and say wants to travel but can't because his wife still has to work. A most unfortunate situation for many australians. Governments should try to improve the quality of life for its citizens, not just think in dollar terms.

Question 39:

In the Defence Departments all age barriers should be lifted and entry based on the ability to pass the physical and mental tests be the sole qualifications apart from the usual educational and citizenship, etc requirements. I am sure there are plenty of older people who, for various reasons, would love to join the defence services but cannot because of their age. If they pass all the tests, as required for young people, age should not be a barrier.
