

CI 1044 B Patterson

First name: Brad

Last name: Patterson

Q1:

Q2:

Q3:

Q4:

Q5:

Yes children's content should be classified.

Q6:

Q7:

No

Q8:

Yes

Q9:

Q10:

Q11:

Q12:

You can't control the internet stop trying, parents need to supervise children by having a PC in a location they can monitor.

Q13:

Parents

Q14:

If it's not hurting anyone stop banning it, get onto stuff that's killing people, like tobacco.

Q15:

Always

Q16:

Q17:

Hard to say, I think industry would probably tailor classifications (in particular movies) to their target demographic, whether or not it was suitable for that audience. I may not understand properly what is meant by industry though.

Q18:

Q19:

Q20:

Q21:

R18+ classification for Video games that are currently being refused classification or being forced to be altered for our market.

Q22:

Q23:

Q24:

Under age porn is about the only thing I can think of that should be banned

Q25:

Q26:

Yes

Q27:

Q28:

Q29:

Other comments:

Games are not played only by kids, It is true I played video games when I was a child but I have not stopped and am now 25, this goes for many people who are now into their 30's, 40's and beyond.

Games need to be recognised as a form of entertainment for all ages and not as games for children.

A big step in this process is introducing an R18+ classification.