

CI 1393 T Inglefinger

First name: Timothy

Last name: Inglefinger

Q1:

Improving key elements of the existing framework.

Q2:

To introduce an R rating for video games and to stop refusing classification to any content, whatever the medium.

Q3:

No.

Q4:

No, all content should be classified appropriately before complaints are made. No content should be refused classification.

Q5:

Content designed for children should be classified. Any content which is designed for children but is deemed unsuitable for children should be classified for viewing by adults or older teens (M, MA, R), such content should not be refused classification.

Q6:

No.

Q7:

Yes, for providing customer advice only.

Q8:

Yes.

Q9:

No.

Q10:

No.

Q11:

None.

Q12:

Personal, opt in filters.

Q13:

Personal opt in filters, installed by the children's parents.

Q14:

Introduce laws banning sale to children and others who are underage.

Q15:

Always.

Q16:

Industry bodies should submit content to the government for classification. The government should give submitted content a classification it believes is suitable and the user should decide whether the content is suitable for viewing depending on this classification. At no point should the government completely stop the user from viewing content, whether or not to view content must be left in the hands of the viewer with the government simply guiding or advising.

Q17:

No, industry should not be allowed to classify content itself as it may abuse the system by misclassifying content in order to increase sales.

Q18:

None.

Q19:

Subsidies should be handed out in accordance to other art grants which are currently in place. eg. if an artist is already receiving government funding for their project the classification process should be subsidised.

Q20:

Yes.

Q21:

Yes. R rating for Video games.

Q22:

All types of content should share the same classification markings.

Q23:

Yes, with the reform of introducing an R (and X?) rating for video games.

Q24:

None. Viewing illegal content such as child pornography should be punished by law, however no attempts to censor content online should be made without a method for individuals to opt out of the censorship with no negative consequences.

Q25:

No, no content should be refused classification.

Q26:

Yes, all states should share the same classification laws.

Q27:

Q28:

Q29:

Other comments: