Q2:

To understand why in a democratic society, should a Government be allowed to make a decision about censorship in Australia. If I wanted that I would live in China

Q3:

No

Q4:

Q5:

No, people need to be educated rather than censored. People need to be exposed to different elements in order to gauge right and wrong and this should be taught at a young age.

Children will one day grow up and possibly travel over seas and be exposed to this type of content, and either try to bring it back should it be classified and therefore creating a "Black Market", rather than openly discussed and criticised accordingly

Q6:

No, it should be left to the individual or household to make up his or her own mind in whether or not they wish to view it

Q11:

the only time a factor should be considered classified is when the material being shown both publicly or privately is when the content has been produced has been done so illegally and without consent i.e. video footage of a rape being conducted where the person is not acting as part of a story and where the actual action has taken place unless the person raped has given consent of its viewing to educate others. It should be then up to the viewing party to decide to watch it or not

Q12:

Age limits, training of staff to enforce age limits i.e. Movie Threaters

Q13:

It should be an option given by the internet provider to be able to block content

Q14:

It shouldn't be. If i want to look at sexually explicit material i will, however and age limit of 18 should be enforced as it currently stands. Should business sell sexually explicit material to minors they should be fined and maybe work on a point system that if they keep abusing the age limit they will be forced to discontinue selling that product, however not everyone breaks the rules and therfor not everyone should be punished

Q15:

As required - I believe this is good as it lets people who do not want to watch explicit material time to do something else or at least understand the nature of what they are about to view

Q16:

To ensure that the content is classified correctly and not withdrawn from the public arena
