

CI 2063 P Murphy

First name: Phil

Last name: Murphy

Q1:

The focus should be on developing a new framework for classification which responds to the new media environment, and which improves on the current scheme.

It is hard to see a justification for a new framework.

As father of nine children I have been what might be called an intensive end-user of the current classification scheme over the past 20 years or so. In this time I consider there has been an unwelcome relaxation of standards particularly in TV and movie classifications.

I feel we need clear regulations that reflect current community standards.

Q2:

Parents must be able to trust the classification scheme so that children and teens are not exposed to inappropriate viewing.

Classifications must take a conservative approach - better to be safe than sorry.

Of particular concern is the increasing tendency for sexualisation of children.

Naturally I fail to see any justification for material condoning degrading or sexual violence against women.

Q3:

No. I can't how it effects the end result whether a movie is viewed at cinema, on TV or online.

Q4:

No. Not sure sure this question is leading.

Q5:

Irrelevant. All should be classified.

Q6:

Irrelevant. All should be classified.

Q7:

Yes.

Q8:

Yes.

Q9:

No.

Q10:

No.

Q11:

Q12:

Opt in ISP level content filtering.

Q13:

Opt in ISP level content filtering.

Q14:

Opt in ISP level content filtering.

Q15:

Whenever not suitable for general exhibition

Q16:

Q17:

No. A case can be made that the industry is more concerned about a rating which will maximize sales than an accurate reflection of the material.

Q18:

Q19:

I'm not aware of the scale of costs involved but I would support some degree of assistance to Australian made content.

Q20:

Yes

Q21:

Q22:

Q23:

Q24:

I have real concerns about the detrimental effects of online adult role playing games involving graphic violence / sexual encounters.

Q25:

No. It needs to be spelled out.

ie. Refused Classification (sexual exploitation of women)

Q26:

Yes.

Q27:

Q28:

Q29:

Other comments: