Q1:

The current framework is fine, it just needs two changes. One. Slightly decreasing the impact etc of items required for the current MA15+ category. Two. Introducing the R18+ category to cover material not suitable for the MA15+ category, but suitable enough not to be refused classification.

Q2:

Adults should be able to view and here what they want. Children should be protected from material that could be harmful to them. A revised classification system is the way to achieve this.

Q3:

This content should be classified, only after an adult rating has been implemented. This will bring Australia in line with other developed nations and their classification system, providing a far more universal and easier to understand classification system.

Q4:

Firstly, everything that is currently classified now, movies, music, games etc should still be classified no matter what. Content that receives complaints should be looked at based on the severity of the complaints. However, if the content has been fully explained and shown to the classification board, and no un-classified material has made it into the overall content, the current classification should remain.
