

CI 365 G Vincent

First name: Guy

Last name: Vincent

Q1:

Improve the existing framework,

Q2:

Bring classification into line with classification criteria for other media forms such as film and print.

Q3:

No, content should be judged across all media outlets along similar lines.

Q4:

Content should be rated before release, as with cinema.

Q5:

Content designed for children should be given G or PG ratings. Content designed for adults should be given an MA or R rating.

Q6:

No, content should be rated if it is for public release.

Q7:

Yes.

Q8:

Yes.

Q9:

No, content should be classified.

Q10:

No, content should be classified.

Q11:

Q12:

Make the service providers responsible.

Q13:

Parental control to access. If you allow your child unsupervised or private access to the net you are an idiot.

Q14:

Make the service providers responsible.

Q15:

When it is for sale.

Q16:

Create classification guidelines to be displayed to better inform peoples choices.

Q17:

Q18:

Same as film/television

Q19:

Yes

Q20:

MA15 is the highest rating for electronic media. This means games which should be rated for adults get through on this rating, which is misleading.

Q21:

R for adult content in games.

Q22:

1 set of rules for all media.

Q23:

1 set of rules for all media.

Q24:

Porn. Completely unrestricted at the moment.

Q25:

No. Games are being refused classification generally on violence or drug use criteria.

Q26:

1 set of rules for all media. National law.

Q27:

1 set of rules for all media. National law.

Q28:

Yes. State government is a joke. We should have 1 set of laws across the country for everything, not just media classification.

Q29:

Media is media. We should classify it on its merits so people can make a choice as to what is appropriate and enjoyable for themselves and their families.

Other comments:

People need to stop shifting responsibility for what happens in their own home onto government regulatory bodies. If you are concerned about what your children are watching, stop them watching it. Move the TV, the gaming system, the internet access from your child's room and put it in the living room. Put a password on it. Take the damn iPhone off them, they don't need it. It's not the government's job to raise your child, it's yours. Take some responsibility.