

CI 737 P Au

First name: Phi

Last name: Au

Q1:

Yes.

Q2:

Ensure that materials are classified appropriately according to similar classifications in place for similar media.

Q3:

Yes. All content should be classified regardless of medium.

Q4:

No. All media must be classified.

Q5:

Yes, Yes.

Q6:

No.

Q7:

Yes.

Q8:

Yes.

Q9:

No.

Q10:

No. Content that are readily accessible to the public will be readily accessible at home.

Q11:

Media that is considered illegal by our justice system.

Q12:

Great firewalls of China. Seems to work for 99.5% of their population.

Q13:

Education from school. Parent's responsibility in monitoring their children.

Q14:

Education. Parent's responsibility in monitoring their children.

Q15:

Always just as on television there are classification warnings at the beginning of every show/movie and during ad breaks.

Q16:

Ensure that media that is classified is classified and any rejections must be released to the public as to why it was rejected and whether or not there is already in place a similar classified media that is not rejected.

Q17:

Maybe, however some media will always be profit before all else under that condition.

Q18:

Games should probably be an experiment for the government to test to see if they can get an adult rating for games agreeable for most.

Q19:

If it was beneficial for funding our economic future in Australia then yes.

Q20:

No. There are no adult classifications on games in Australia. Games are not children's toys these days. The average 'gamer' in Australia is well over 18.

Q21:

Yes. Games. No they are mostly fine.

Q22:

Use the same standard across for media formats. For example if a movie rated R18+ was allowed to show a decapitation of a human head, then so should a game with the same R18+ due to strong violence.

Q23:

Yes they should be consolidated and trialed to see if any further modifications are required.

Q24:

Illegal material. As in material if in possession you may be found liable to charges from the law.

Q25:

No.

Q26:

Yes. There should be a national classification law that way all Australians may travel safely across all of Australia.

Q27:

This will have to be decided in a debate with a independent panel and the states and territories recommending to the senate what legislative scheme should be introduced.

Q28:

Yes.

Q29:

Education of classification of media to our school children.

Other comments: