Q1:

The ALRC should focus on expanding the current classification framework to include an R18+ Video game rating the, the current framework for video game classifications currently stands at MA15+ which is the highest rating for video games currently, the MA15+ video game rating is outdated and is also out of touch with the current era of gamers which the average age of a gamer being 30 as this age is an appropriate age to watch various types of violence in other forms of media should they choose to do so, shouldn't they also have the choice as to whether or not they play certain video games within reasonable guidelines such as an R18+ Rating it all depends on the persons moral compass as to what they allow themselves to view so in conclusion a new frame work needs R rated rating for video games with the heavy handed censorship that is in place with the current classifications system dialled down tenfold.

Q2:

To allow Mature adults to choose what they will or wont play hence the need for the R rating, it is a persons choice not the goverments to choose what they view otherwise draw the iron curtain and prepare for revolt.

Q3:

No the the technology or platform used to access content should not affect whether content should be classified, A mature adult should be able to choose what they will or will not view it should be up to the person not the government.

Q4:

No its simple If you find it offensive don't view or play it.

Q5:

No an R rating generally means 18 years or older, the other classifications have their particular target ages as well, It is entirely upto the parents/guardians as to what they allow their children view if a child attempts to buy a game designed for mature audiences then the store should refuse the sale.

Q6:

Q7:

No, art is art any form of censorship to it would be highly outrageous.

Q8:

no.

Q9:

no

Q10:

no

Q11:

if something being depicted is highly illegal i.e child pornography and rape then that particular piece of content should be rejected classification any other various depictions of crimes such as murder or destruction of public property shouldnt have any influence on classification as they are everyday occurrences.

Q12:

there is no effective method.

Q13:

the legal guardians will have to take a more active role into what their child is viewing.

Q14:

Q15:

when It is highly inappropriate for minors to be viewing.

Q18:

Q19:

Q20:

yes

Q21:

R rating category for adults gamers who wish to view and play mature adult content not suitable for children

Q22:

Q23:

Q24:

Child pornography.

Q25:

No.

Q26:

the state government agencies currently in charge of the classification laws, currently are inconsistent and the job should be delegated to the federal government with help from and independent group of civilians.

Q27:

an Independent civilian review board with people from all walks of life.

Q28:

yes as the current system is not working with nearly everyone's personal agendas getting in the way of change.

Q29:

just assign R rating to video games to help our society move forward with other societies and not backwards into some deep archaic repressed group of civilians with little or no say in what they can or can not do.
