First name: George

Last name: Tsavouoglou

Q1:

Simply improving it would suffice, adding an R18+ restriction is ideal

Q2:

To create a system that protects the very young.

Q3:

No. Most content which is deemed inappropriate is released on multiple platforms.

Q4:

All content should receive a classification for the un-informed. I.E. A mother buying for the child needs to know the age restriction before she buys it.

Q5:

Obviously children's material should be classified. However ultimately the decision comes down to what the parents wants their kids to watch/play.

Q6:

No, all material should be classified on the content itself, irrelevant to how big the market is itself.

Q7:

No, that is not necessary

Q8:

Yes, due to the amount music is listened to. I believe music is more influential then any other type of medium.

Q9:

No, all content should be classified on the content instelf.

Q10:

Perhaps, but obviously people are going to do whatever they want to in the privacy of their own homes.

Q11:

Q12:

Nothing is effective, internet is free media and should always remain freedom of choice.

Q13:

Parental supervision, programs such as net nanny's
