

CI 911 M Herriott

First name: Michael

Last name: Herriott

Q1:

Adopt the same framework that has worked in the film and tv industry for years. Standardised ratings make decision making clearer and simpler.

Q2:

Simplicity and clarity across media formats

Q3:

No, content is content and the delivery methods are going to constantly change. We need a system that is flexible to cope with this constant change and prevent loopholes or other issues that will likely arise when a new delivery format is developed.

Q4:

Yes

Q5:

No. Yes

Q6:

No

Q7:

No

Q8:

Yes

Q9:

No.

Q10:

Yes

Q11:

Q12:

Q13:

This is the responsibility of parents and/or guardians not a government role. People need to take more responsibility for themselves and their families rather than relying on the gov't to develop a filter or regulation that will undoubtedly drive up costs, slow performance or have some other negative impact.

Q14:

Q15:

Q16:

Q17:

Yes

Q18:

Games, movies, magazines, music

Q19:

No

Q20:

No, I think they are very clear.

Q21:

Gaming requires an "R" classification but other than that it think that the current framework works well in other media types.

Q22:

One standard for all content types, as currently exists for film and tv will make it clear for all.

Q23:

Yes.

Q24:

Only content that contravenes laws or peoples rights.

Q25:

I believe so.

Q26:

We should have a national standard.

Q27:

Any new scheme should allow for a majority decision rather than needing acceptance of all members.

Q28:

Yes.

Q29:

Other comments: