Making a Submission to the ALRC.

We want to hear your ideas about how we can make our laws better.

You can tell us about your experience of the law. This is called a submission. This can help us find ways to make the law better.

In a submission you can

- answer our questions
- or
- tell us your own story or ideas about what you think should change.

There are a few ways to make a submission.

- Write to

The Executive Director

Australian Law Reform Commission

GPO Box 3708

SYDNEY NSW 2001

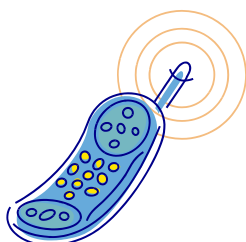

- Email us - info@alrc.gov.au

- Fill out a form on our website

www.alrc.gov.au

- Phone us

02 8238 6333

We put submissions on our website. We do not show your private contact details.

If you tell us your submission is private we will not put it on the website.

Your ideas are very important to us. They help Australia make laws better.

We may put your ideas in our Report or other documents.
