To whom it may concern,

Religious based schools need to remain exactly that, and they need to have the right to choose teachers best suited to the education including religious education of the children whose parents choose to send them to these schools.

No government or legal body can or should take this from parents or from schools. Should you choose to take this right from parents and schools you will have the most enormous fight on your hands, because neither parents nor schools will accept this. No government or government institution or legal commission has any right whatsoever to take away our freedom of choice.
