

To our Parliament Representative,

It is very important for Christian schools to have the right to exclusion so that children within these schools can grow their faith. Christian schools are essential to allow the next generation to get to know God to the fullest. As a Christian parent it is very important to me that my children are raised in a Christian school which fully supports their faith.

Sincerely

Jocelyn Asquith