

Following reasons needs to be considered before reaching to any outcome:

- It is against our rights to practice our culture, language, and religion.
- Government has a responsibility to make sure the rights are protected.
- Government funded private schools with less funds compared to public schools. Majority of the funds come from parents; hence we have every right to choose the kind of education given to our children.
- Have the rights for us to choose and uphold our religious ethos instead of focusing us to abide.
- With the new law, it is discrimination against those with religious beliefs and forcing us to comply.
- Staff, Children, and families should abide by the code of conduct of the schools and institutes and are welcome to seek alternative if they disagree.
- The law should be balanced to allow us to continue our rights and our dignity.
