

Hello

I am the parent of an organ/tissue donor.

I lost my youngest son as the result of an accident in February 2025. We had previously had a discussion around organ donation and he was fully supportive, never did I believe it would become our reality. As it transpires, he had registered online to donate organs, bones and tissue.

We have received correspondence from recipients with positive updates about the amazing life they are now living due to my son's final gifts. They have indicated how they would just like to wrap their arms around us. The feeling is mutual.

I would like the opportunity, with mutual consent of course, to enable both parties to meet when the time was right. Meeting could occur in a neutral location, such as Donatelife office.

Many thanks
